Art That Made Us is all about sharing how art and design has shaped our history. London Fire Brigade has lots of art in its history and some of this is hidden in its uniforms.

Our firefighters wear a uniform to protect them when fighting fire and so that you can recognise who they are.

The first fire brigades were called Insurance Company fire brigades. Firefighters wore bright colours to show what fire brigade they were working for.

- Design your own uniform – remember to use lots of bright colours.
