

Freedom of Information request reference number: FOIA 9172.1

Date of response: 31st October 2024

Request:

I'm starting my research project for the year and am interested in looking at the long-term outcomes of emergency horse rescues. For example, following up after horses have been rescued from ditches, bodies of water or barn fires. I was wondering if you had any information on the type of horse rescues your organization has been involved in. I would be interested in the type of emergency, the frequency in which you are called to attend these types of emergencies and if you collect any information on the animal after rescue. I hope to hear from you soon and thank you for your time

Response:

The London Fire Brigade publishes the information you have requested online on the London Datastore. The data can be found online so is exempt under Section 21 of the FOIA – information reasonably accessible by other means.
